A WORD FROM THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

JEFF EBERT

Hello Cheviot Enthusiasts,

As I write this column for the 2023 Cheviot Journal a few things come to mind. First, we have had three people contact our office this year that purchased small groups of Cheviot ewes and they wanted to know if they were registered. Researching by tag numbers we were not able to locate these animals in our system. The point of this is breeders please register your sheep as it adds value to them. You may not see that value immediately, but there are still a group of people who want to own registered animals and they get really frustrated when they buy animals that fit the breed type and then they are not registered. The cost of registration has not increased in at least 15 years. What else can you say has not increased in that time frame? Take the time to keep up with your registrations.

Secondly, your board of directors is working hard to try to increase involvement in your association especially for our Cheviot youth. At the National Sale this year we will host the first junior comeback show. This allows any juniors who bought a futurity ewe lamb in 2022 to bring her back to the National Sale in June and show her on the morning of the Cheviot show in a special class just for those yearling ewes owned by juniors. Even if you did not turn in futurity point forms in 2022, you are still eligible to show in this special class. There is $450 that has been set aside to reward the youth who bring back their ewes to show.

Finally, I encourage all of you to get involved with your association. Many sheep associations are losing numbers of members and of sheep being registered, but others are growing. What are you doing to help grow your association? Be proactive and promote this great breed of sheep.

REGISTER THOSE CHEVIOTS ----- GET INVOLVED IN THE ACSS

A WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT DAN SPILDE

Hello fellow Cheviot enthusiasts.

I hope this finds you all well, and that lambing season is proving to be both exciting and successful. As we start thinking about spring and summer activities and going to shows, I am excited to report that the Cheviot National Sale will be moving back to Springfield, Illinois. Now that all the Covid restrictions and rescheduled events because of Covid lockdowns are behind us, we can get back to some normalcy with our national sale. It will be held on June 9-10, 2023 at the Illinois State Fairgrounds. For those who generally attend this event, I look forward to seeing you again and catching up on how winter and spring treated you.

For those who have not been attending the national sale, I strongly encourage that you make it a point to be there this year. It is a marvelous event and a great time to share stories and ideas with other sheep folks, as well as getting a first-hand look at what trends are happening within the breed and the sheep industry. Enter a few Cheviots if you are able to, come and bid on some that can help your program, or simply just come for the camaraderie and the latest news in the sheep business. I can't stress enough, the importance of building unity within our breed and coming together at this event to help build for the future. As the President of the American Cheviot sheep Society, I would like to extend a huge thank you to Brad Angus and everyone at Joliet Junior College for an exceptional job in hosting the sale last year. They have a state of the art facility and the hospitality was awesome! It was a fun weekend in 2022. Let's make 2023 the biggest and best sale in history!

One last thing... if you receive any kind of email claiming that it is me and it's asking for any money or anything else, delete it! There seems to be spam connected with the association email list and it is not me sending it.

I wish you all good luck as your lambs grow and look forward to seeing you all this summer.

Sincerely,

Dan Spilde

UPDATED INFORMATION WANTED

The American Cheviot Sheep Society emails a periodic newsletter about events and Cheviot happenings. If you would like to be included on this email list please notify the Association office at ebertsheepfarm@gmail.com. This will allow the information to get to you, the members, much quicker. Also, if you have corrections to your address or phone number or want to add your cell phone to your breeder listing, please notify the office of that as well. The mailing list is an ever changing list so please do all you can to keep the Association office updated of any changes in your contact information.

The Association is always looking for good farm scene pictures of Cheviots, so if you get a chance take some pictures and send them by email or disk to the Association office. Your help in these matters is much appreciated.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The modern Cheviot breed has been produced by selection rather than by crossing. It is a pure breed, one of a very few in this country. Because of this purity, when the Cheviot ram is mated with crossbred ewes of other breeds, he stamps an unmistakable Cheviotness on his offspring, importing to them a large measure of the superiority of which Cheviots are known.

Distinctive Appearance

The modern American Cheviot is primarily a mutton sheep. As sheep weights go, it is definitely one of the smaller breeds but one of the most distinctive in appearance. Much of its distinctive appearance is due to the high carriage of the head and the quick, coordinated stride. The head is carried high, and the ears are carried together, erect and forward. There is no wool on the head or face in front of the ears, nor is there wool below the knees and the hocks. The head, legs, and ears are covered with very fine white hair. Their bare heads, attractive white color and absence of horns give them a very aristocratic bearing. Nostrils and hooves should be black in color. Rams in good condition mature at 160 to 200 lbs., ewes from 130 to 170 lbs.

Extreme Hardiness

The breed is also recommended for its extreme hardiness. This is one of the breed's strongest characteristics. For generations raised on the Cheviot Hills, rarely seeing the inside of a shed or barn, summer or winter, Cheviots have, from force of circumstances, developed into the hardiest of the medium-wool breeds. The newborn lambs are strong, vigorous and alert and are born with a will to live. Their unusual vitality and hardiness makes them easy to raise, and with reasonable care, losses are insignificant.

Production Plus

Cheviot ewes are a delight for the shepherd. They bear their lambs easily, have a high number of twins, and produce plenty of milk to support them. Production records, year after year, show that their twins grow as fast as single lambs. Both the lambs and their mothers are good foragers and thrifty efficient feeders. Their grazing pattern is unlike that of other sheep. Instead of grouping together in a frontal assault on a single area, they tend to spread out over an area and get all the available feed. As rustlers, they have few equals. If there is vegetation to be found—above or beneath the snows—browse, grass, heather, or weed—they will find it.

Desirable Carcasses

The modern Cheviot has a compact body with a straight smooth back with covers a rack of well-filled, meaty chops and a broad loin of superior quality. The leg is full, round and plump. One of the outstanding merits of these choice cuts, the Cheviot has a reputation as a meat producer. These plump, meaty cuts, their pink flesh delicately trimmed with just enough fat to make them juicy and tender, are the housewife's choice because with them she can serve her family a tasty meal with minimum waste. Because they are housewife's choice, Cheviots are the choice of the butcher, and therefore bring a better price at the market. The Cheviot is prized by the meat packers for the very practical reason that the packer gets more pounds of lamb which he buys "on the hoof." Cheviot rams are excellent sires in crossbred market lamb production programs. Ewes built to deliver larger-headed lambs find the Cheviot-sired lambs, with their small heads, very easy to deliver, so that much less attention is required at lambing time. These lambs are so vigorous, strong, and hardy at birth that losses are kept at a minimum, and a higher percentage of the lambs are raised to marketing age. Successful producers of commercial lambs know their success depends upon their ability to produce the kind of lamb carcasses which the market demands, at the lowest labor and feed cost. Cheviot ram aid these commercial producers in producing the type of lambs desired by the market.

Fine Fleeces

Cheviots produce generous fleeces of white wool which is preferred by mills because its fineness, crimp, and length of staple give it superior spinning and combing qualities, and its low grease content causes less shrinkage in scouring. The fleece is usually grades 1/4 to 3/8 blood combing and is usually from four to five inches in length. Rams will normally shear 9 to 13 lbs., and the ewe will produce fleeces of 8 to 10 lbs.

All Things Considered

Though Cheviots may come in smaller packages, they contain for the sheepman a surprising combination of highly desirable qualities. They are noted for hardiness, longevity, productiveness, milking, and mothering ability and for their great activity. They are high in quality and hang a presentable carcass that has a minimum of outside fat for the amount of carcass lean produced. They utilize rough, low producing hill country very profitably with relatively little assistance from man and even less from the elements. Where there is a really tough clean-up job to be done to convert waste land into dollars, more and more sheepmen are discovering that "Cheviots can take it." In comparing Cheviots with other breeds, let the comparison be made on a basis of pounds of dressed lamb and clean wool produced per acre, and consider all of the costs of this production, including the year-round cost of feeding the ewe, and the time and attention required at lambing and shearing time.

CHEVIOT BREED STANDARDS

Border Cheviots are a small-framed breed of sheep known for their vigor, mother ability, muscle and ease of fleshing. Along with their size, the head is another unique characteristic of the Border Cheviot.

I. GENERAL APPEARANCE 25 POINTS

A. APPEARANCE: Alert, active stylish and symmetrical, standing on moderate leg length. The overall body exhibits balance.

B. SIZE: The preferred Cheviot is proportional in height and length equal to or exceeding the height of the animal. The average Cheviot ram should weight approximately 200 pounds at maturity. The average Cheviot ewe should weigh approximately 150 pounds at maturity.

II. BREED TYPE 25 POINTS

The beauty of the Cheviot head is one of the breed's distinguishing features. The Cheviot style, alertness and contrasting colors set the breed apart from others.

A. HEAD: Medium in length and broad, with ample width between the eyes. Straight with little arch between the eyes and nostrils; more strongly arched in rams.

1. EARS: Medium in length, sharply erect, of medium thickness, and placed on top of the head. The circumference of the ears should five a curved appearance, rather than flat and open. From a side view, the ears should be pointed slightly forward.

2. EYES: Large, round, clear and alert, with black pigmentation around the rim of the eye.

3. NOSE: Broad muzzled, with large nostrils forming a black "T" at the end of the nose.

4. MOUTH: Black lipped with a strong deep jaw.

B. HAIR COVERING: Head, ears, and legs well covered with fine, short, white hair. Black spots are acceptable on the ears and poll. Black spots on any other part of the body are objectionable. Brown hair on any part of the body is HIGHLY objectionable.

C. HOOVES: Black in color.

III. STRUCTURE 25 POINTS

Soundness is imperative in useful Cheviot sheep. Incorrectness decreases the animal's movement, growth, reproductive rate, longevity, usefulness and ultimate value. Additionally, structure and soundness are highly inheritable traits. Cheviots should stand on large circumference of bone with adequate size to the foot. Structural soundness relates to the skeleton. Incorrectness in one part of the skeleton usually is connected to incorrectness in other parts of the skeleton. For example, usually post-legged animals are also too straight in their should angle.

AREAS OF STRUCTURAL CORRECTNESS

FOREQUARTERS: Shoulder blades should be set in uniformly and smoothly to the rest of the body.

BACK: The back of Cheviot sheep should be straight as possible from the top of the shoulder to the dock. A slightly elevated shoulder in comparison to the hip is acceptable. Additionally, slight slope of the hip from the hook to the pin bones is acceptable.

FRONT FEET: Front View: Both feet should point forward and be perpendicular to the body with straightness from the chest floor to the toe.

SIDE VIEW: Feet should be straight from the chest floor through the knee to the pastern. The angle of the pastern should be approximately 45 degrees. Less of an angle allows for weak pasterns and more of an angle allows for extreme straightness.

REAR FEET: Side View: The back of the rear leg should be perpendicular to the pin bones of the hip. Less angle allows for post-legged individuals. More angle causes sheep to be sickle-hocked.

REAR VIEW: Legs should be square and perpendicular to the corners of the body with equal distance between legs at the hock and the toe.

MOVEMENT: Animals should maintain the proper correctness to the skeleton both while standing and moving. Many times structural defects are not evident until the animal moves about. It is then important to assess structural correctness both while the Cheviot is standing and moving.

For the beginner and veteran breeder alike, an excellent article on feet and leg soundness in sheep is "Feet and Legs" (North Central Regional Extension Publication #301) by Drs. Harold Henneman and Margaret Benson of Michigan State University.

IV. BODY 25 POINTS

A. NECK: Moderately long, trim, and exhibiting extension, blending smoothly into shoulders, and contributing to an overall balanced appearance.

OF EXCELLENCE

B. SHOULDERS: Smoothly laid in from neck to back. Tight at top of the shoulder, also smooth at the point of the shoulder.

C. CHEST, BRISKET, AND HEART GIRTH: Chest deep and moderately wide, but trim, with adequate capacity, and fitting smoothly into neck and shoulders. Brisket also trim. Heart girth full, broad and deep to promote longevity.

D. BACK (TOPLINE): Long and level, no weakness in front or behind the shoulder.

E. RIBS: Deep and well sprung with adequate cover. Essential for vigor and ease of fleshing.

F. LOIN: Long, wide, deep, and well covered.

G. HINDQUARTERS: Hip broader than shoulders. Rump wide, long and level out to the dock. Leg heavily muscled.

H. UNDERLINE: Level and as parallel to the topline as possible. Flanks deep and full.

I. FLEECE: Chalky white in color, uniform crimp with blunt ends; staple is definite. Covers the body completely from behind the poll and ears to slightly above the knees and hocks, including the belly.

Wool Grade:

3/8 to 1/4 blood combing
(58s to 48s or 27 to 33 microns)

Weight of fleece:

IMPLEMENTING NEW BREED STANDARDS

The new Cheviot Standards of Excellence were adopted at the 2004 annual meeting of the American Cheviot Sheep Society. The new Breed Standards are the result of more than two years of work by a committee formed in 2002. Through the process of updating the Cheviot Breed Standards, members presented many thoughts and proposals. These thoughts were debated until the final draft was approved by a vote of the members in November 2004. While probably not perfect, these Standards represent a significant step forward in the preservation of both the desirable carcass and the beautiful and distinctive Cheviot appearance. Now the important task of applying these Standards is up to all Cheviot breeders. Taking time to explain and demonstrate the preferred Cheviot characteristics to young 4-Hers and others who desire to be Cheviot breeders is critical. Another important task in assuring that these Standards are followed is to choose judges for national Cheviot competitions who will apply them in the show ring. To help the Board of Directors evaluate how an individual judge applies the breed Standards of Excellence, we ask you to fill out the critique form found on the back page of the Cheviot Journal. If you need extra copies of the critique form, please contact the ACSS office. It is very important for each member to do this so we can establish a judge's review to assist in the selection of judges for national shows who follow the Breed Standards.

The American Cheviot Sheep Society has taken a large step forward in guarding and maintaining the quality of our Cheviot breed. It is now up to each one of us to complete this task. Please fill out a judge critique form for each show you attend and follow the instructions for submitting the form. If you would like extra copies of the Cheviot Breed Standards of Excellence to share with judges in your area, please contact the ACSS office.

ALB releases FY22 report and new strategic plan

The focus now turns to FY23 and beyond.

The past year has been challenging for the U.S. lamb industry between price inflation, labor challenges and the economic downturn, added to the lingering COVID pandemic. The American Lamb Board (ALB) released its FY22 Annual Report to inform mandatory Lamb Checkoff stakeholders of its work to mitigate the effects of outside forces and take advantage of opportunities.

"Even though many challenges are out of our control, it's critical that we keep driving forward as hard as we can to promote American [lamb] and the [U.S. sheep industry,]" said Peter Camino, ALB chairman. "During this past tough year, your American Lamb Board worked to support our loyal American [lamb] retail and foodservice customers and invest in programs and strategies that can strengthen our long-term competitiveness. Making American [lamb] the preferred choice of consumers, chefs and retailers is at the core of your American Lamb Checkoff's promotion, information and research programs."

The focus now turns to FY23 and beyond.

"As the American [lamb] industry looks to the future, there are several areas for opportunity," Camino said. To embrace those opportunities, ALB has announced an ambitious strategic plan for the next five years, including increasing demand for American lamb by 5% and taking 5% market share from lamb imports by the end of 2028.

To that end, ALB has identified three primary goals:

- Marketing: Grow consumer demand for American lamb
- Research, Education & Innovation: Optimize/prioritize research and education efforts to improve product quality and consistency, increase productivity and grow the year-round supply of American lamb
- Industry Services: Expand awareness, understanding, engagement and involvement of stakeholders in the American Lamb Checkoff

The American Lamb Board (ALB) is an industry-funded national research, promotion and information check-off program that works on behalf of all American commercial and seedstock producers, feeders, direct marketers and processors to build awareness and demand for American Lamb. Funding is through mandatory assessments paid by all industry segments. The board is appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture and represents all industry sectors, geographic regions and sizes of production. The work of the ALB is overseen by the USDA and supported by staff in Denver, Colorado.

ALB's annual budget averages about $2.5 million. Almost two-thirds of funds are devoted to American lamb promotion. By law, the board's expenditures for administration are limited to 10% or less of projected revenues. The board was established in 2002.

How has the sheep industry, more specifically Cheviots, taught you responsibility in all aspects of your life?

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER FEATURE

CHEYENNE CLYDE

HOW HAS THE SHEEP INDUSTRY, MORE SPECIFICALLY CHEVIOTS, TAUGHT YOU RESPONSIBILITY IN ALL ASPECTS OF YOUR LIFE?

When asked to describe my life I often respond with the words "Organized chaos", laugh, and shrug my shoulders. Its easier rather than trying to explain what occurs on the daily in my world. The life I live is often too overwhelming to describe in a short conversation. If someone were to ask me and I gave my real answer I could talk your ear off. Describing to you how I've spent countless sleepless nights in the barns tending to newborns, or how I've traveled the country exhibiting, in my opinion, the world's greatest animal. Today I'm here to break that bad habit and describe how the livestock industry has impacted my life.

Caring for livestock comes with a great deal of responsibility. I've learned how to manage more responsibility than most my age. It helped me to excel academically. I had to learn how to successfully manage my time between school, work, tending to the farm, and showing livestock. Juggling a schedule that busy lead me to maintain an organized schedule and plan ahead. This also helped me with smaller tasks in the classroom, like using efficient studying methods and efficient test taking skills. Livestock has also helped me to be a well-rounded individual and obtain various important life skills. Learning through trial and error, I've learned how to be responsible for my own actions and consequences. Showing livestock, specifically raising cheviots due to their unruly attitude, has taught me the work ethic you put into a project will show in the end. The time spent taking on the responsibility of having your own project, caring, working, and feeding the animal dramatically impacts the result. The sheep industry has taught me to better myself as a human being and own up to the responsibility of raising livestock. The sheep industry has also played a big role in preparing me for the future. Growing up on a farm has helped me to find my purpose in life and know what occupation I want to pursue. Learning to tend to the others and manage my time will be a trait I will carry with me throughout my lifespan. Taking on the responsibility of attending college to receive a higher education and taking the initiative to find a good source of income, then exhibiting my skills in and outside of the taking work site. Growing up in the livestock industry has taught me more than what I can fathom. From learning to be responsible to having gentle hands to care for others, livestock has impacted my life in many positive ways.

CHEVIOT EWE FUTURITY

Cheviot Ewe Futurity

The American Cheviot Sheep Society will again sponsor the Cheviot Futurity open to all Junior Exhibitors. A "Junior Exhibitor" is defined as an exhibitor who is not older than 21 on the date of the Junior Cheviot Show at NAILE. There is no lower age limit, but the Junior must be physically capable of showing their own sheep (exception made for physical or other handicap). Each Junior may purchase more than one animal, but only one animal placing in the top eight will be awarded to the top placings.

Consignors will nominate animals at specified sales and only these animals will be eligible for the Futurity. All animals must be purchased at a designated sale. Most consignment and private online sales offer Futurity nominated animals.

Consignor Rules:

1. Entries include Spring Ewe Lambs born Jan. 1, 2023 or later and Fall Ewe Lambs born Sept. 1, 2022. Yearling Ewes that were previously nominated in 2022 as lambs can be re-nominated by the Juniors for $25.
2. Nominating fee of $25 is payable to the American Cheviot Sheep Society. Animals must be nominated and designated prior to entering the show ring of a designated sale. Futurity animals must be sold at the auction of a designated sale and not be pre-sold.
3. Animals must have Scrapie Identification in their ear prior to being sold.

Exhibitor Rules:

1. Age limitations for Junior Exhibitors: to be eligible to compete in the Futurity, an exhibitor must not be over 21 years of age on the date of the Junior Cheviot Show at NAILE.
2. Junior Members must be physically able to show their Futurity animal to qualify for points at each show (exception made for physical or other handicap). If an exhibitor has more than one Futurity animal in a class, the owning junior must show one and another exhibitor must show the second animal.

3. Futurity animals are to be registered in the individual Juniors name only. No partnerships, farm, family, 4-H Club or FFA Chapter names are acceptable.
4. Animals and points earned in the Futurity are not transferable to any other person; nor are the points transferable from one animal to another.
5. Any Futurity entrant may compete with as many animals as desired, but will receive a premium for the one animal with the highest point total, in each division.
6. Animals must be shown in proper age classes.
7. Premium: The American Cheviot Sheep Society has donated $800 to start the Futurity Premium. A percentage of this money will be awarded to each division based on the number of animals nominated. The nominating fee will stay within the designated division of the Futurity. Division 1 – Spring Ewe Lambs, Division 2 – Fall Ewe Lambs, Division 3 – Yearling Ewes.
8. The top eight places will be paid in each division.
9. A point card must be filled out for each show and forwarded to the American Cheviot Sheep Society office by November 1, 2023. The card must be signed by the Superintendent of the show certifying that the Junior exhibited the animal, class size and the placing of the animal.
10. For points-earned purposes, all shows are considered equal; i.e. AOB, Junior, Open, State and County receive equal point value in figuring points. Only the Junior Show at NAILE will be included.
11. Futurity animals may compete at any number of shows, but only the top five point-award shows will be included in determining awards.
12. Futurity Awards will be announced at NAILE.
13. The sliding scale shown in the chart indicates how points will be determined.

CHEVIOT JUNIOR QUESTIONNAIRE

PAIGE CLYDE

Name: Paige Clyde
Parents names: David and Melissa Clyde
Year in School: Senior in College
Hometown: Greenville, PA

Give a brief background on your education, activities:

- Graduated from Reynolds Jr. Sr. High School in 2020
- Currently attending Thiel college, set to graduate fall 2023
- Active member of Thiel Equestrians
- Junior Olympic Archery Coach
- Active member if PCLA Jackpot Circuit

Number of Cheviots in your flock: about 100

Favorite show that you have attended and why?

The All American Jr. Show - The AAJS is well run and caters to youth in a way that no other show does. The staff that puts on the show each year do an outstanding job at encouraging youth from all over the United States to participate. I am all for getting youth involved in the livestock industry and I think the AAJS does just that. I would like to take this time to thank all of the people involved in putting on the All American Jr. Show each year. It's a show that will harbor countless memories and I encourage anyone who is hesitant to show sheep, start here.

What do you like about Cheviots?

I think that the best quality about cheviots is their physical features. The dark eyes and nose stand out against their all white face and body. When they are cleaned up for a show, they stand out the most among other breeds. Cheviots are smart animals that are hardy and are wonderful mothers.

Fondest Sheep Memory?

Getting to show showmanship with my sister at the Youth Sheep Expo in Greenfield, IN Future Plans and Goals?

I plan on attending graduate school to further be a Physician's Assistant with an emphasis in Dermatology.

Advice you would like to share with junior Cheviot members?

Spend your time in the barn... raise sheep that you like to look at... I think that is true for all livestock breeders but with Cheviots especially, they require time and patience but they offer the biggest reward. Believe it or not they can be just as calm as any other breed. Spend your time in the barn, get to know the animals you raise and treat them with the highest respect. It pays off, I promise.

Final Four – 4 quick questions

Favorite Food? Bacon

Favorite Activity Away from Sheep? Shooting Archery

What would be your ultimate vacation? Fishing trip in Alaska

What's a fun fact about yourself? I am a double major (Biology and Health systems) double minor (psychology and medical biology) in college.

CHEVIOT BREEDER QUESTIONNAIRE

KELLY COPELAND

Introduce yourself and your family.

I am Kelly Copeland, I am married to Cindy and we have two daughters, Kaylee who lives in Michigan and Kasey who lives in Pennsylvania.

Give a brief description of your Cheviot flock.

We started our Cheviot flock in 1990. We started with Shoop bloodlines. We then introduced Judy Moore bloodlines and some Loke bloodlines. We leased the Traglia flock in 2017. Our flock currently consists of 80 brood ewes.

Why did you choose to raise Cheviots?

I helped a friend show some Cheviots and really liked them so we decided that was what we wanted to raise.

Advise you have for people starting out with Cheviots?

Get the Cheviot sheep you like. They don't always have to be the biggest but always pretty.

What are one or two things you have found to be critical needs for the success of your Cheviot flock?

One of the hardest things as with other breeds is finding a good buck. Buy what you like, you don't have to jump on the bandwagon just to be like everyone else.

Who are some people that you credit your success with Cheviots?

I would credit Alvin Shoop as to always keep good heads and to Sue Traglia for trimming and help pick good sheep through the years.

Final Four – 4 quick questions

What is your favorite sports team?

Our local high school team as I am not a big sports fan

What is your favorite food?

Pizza - you can never go wrong with Pizza

What is the top item on your bucket list?

To win a Champion at Louisville

What is your favorite place you have visited?

Out West - Wyoming/Utah

CHEVIOT BREEDER QUESTIONNAIRE

ASHLEE & ASHLEY MUNDY

Introduce yourself and your family.

We are the Mundy's. Ashlee and Ashley (not a typo and yes that can be confusing). Our kids are Hayden and Kansas.

Give a brief description of your Cheviot flock.

We run a small flock of about 30 ewes. We love Cheviots and show them at our local county fair.

Why did you choose to raise Cheviots?

Very hardy breed that is low maintenance.

Advise you have for people starting out with Cheviots?

A good working facility and a strong back :)

What are one or two things you have found to be critical needs for the success of your Cheviot flock?

Good fences and a neighbor willing to lend a hand when needed.

Who are some people that you credit your success with Cheviots?

Homer Long family and Dennis & Pam Miller

Final Four – 4 quick questions

What is your favorite sports team?

49er's

What is your favorite food?

Ice Cream

What is the top item on your bucket list?

A vacation would be nice

What is your favorite place you have visited?

Saint Maarten
